TONIGHT: LIBRARY'S CORNELL COOPERATIVE SERIES PRESENTS INTEGRATED PEST MANAGEMENT

The need for pest control is universal, as are its risks. Integrated Pest Management (IPM) helps meet your pest control needs, whether you're on the farm, at work, at school, at home, or in the community. IPM encourages safe, minimally toxic solutions for both pests and pesticides. Additionally, IPM helps manage pests—such as insects, plant diseases, weeds, and more—using methods that minimize health and environmental risks while saving money.

Cornell Cooperative Series: Integrated Pest

Management is an online program that takes place tonight, Wednesday, August 20, from 7:00 to 8:00pm. This program is free and open to the public, but registration is required. Register online through the Library's online calendar, and you will receive an Event URL. This program is available thanks to a consortium of MCLS libraries that are sharing resources and connecting communities.
